

PROGRAMME 2001/2002

2001

- 9th October Prof Brad Hooker, from Reading
'The Collapse of Some Virtue Ethics'
- 16th October Prof David Papineau, from KCL
'Could There Be a Science of Consciousness?'
- 23rd October Prof Peter Lipton, from King's Cambridge
'Science, Religion and Truth'
- 30th October Prof Oswald Hanfling, from the Open University
'Wittgenstein and the Problem of Consciousness'
- 20th November Dr. Jonathan Reé, from Middlesex
'As if for the First Time: Kierkegaard'
- 11th December Prof Rae Langton, from Edinburgh
'Projection in Sexual Objectification'

2002

- 9th January Prof Donald Gillies, from KCL
'An Action-Related Theory of Causality'
- 22nd January Prof John Worrall, from LSE
'The Sad Story of the "Anthropic Principle" and the Perils of "Scientific Explanation"'
- 29th January Prof Stuart Brown, from the Open University
'Leibniz and Berkeley on Causation'
- 5th February Dr Hans-Johann Glock, from Reading
'Does Ontology Exist?'
- 26th February Dr Jonardon Ganeri, from Liverpool
'Reason and Ritual'
- 5th March Dr Ursula Coope, from Birkbeck
'Time for Aristotle'
- 12th March Dr Tim Crane, from UCL
'Subjective Facts'
- 19th March Student Debate : Avi Israel and Giacino Palmieri
'The Objectivity of Morality'
- 23rd April Prof David Cockburn, from Lampeter
'Language, Belief and Human Beings'
- 30th April Dr Peter Goldie, from KCL
'Can we trust our emotions?'
- 7th May Prof Ted Honderich, from UCL
'Consciousness: The Remaining Theory?'
- 14th May Prof José Luis Bermúdez, from Stirling
'The domain of folk psychology'
- 21st May Dr. Barry C. Smith, from Birkbeck
'Fraught Emotions'